STRATEGIES FOR CREATING THRIVING, COHERENT AND INTEGRAL MINISTRIES

For ministers, board members, lay leaders, practitioners, licensed teachers and led by Rev. Dr. Gary Simmons, the Thriving Ministry Model is a new paradigm for church growth and development. Based on the Integral theory of Ken Wilber, this new model emphasizes a movement from the pastor/flock model to a community/mission centric model of ministry. It equips church leaders with dynamic tools for creating cultural and systemic shifts in the church that lead to increased congregational ownership and organizational resilience. Based on the ground-breaking research of Rev. Dr. Gary Simmons, this seminar reveals how church leaders can effectively impact how their congregations support the ministry. It provides a holistic framework for working with organizational issues that result in operational congruence and interpersonal integrity.

The focus of the seminar is on growing the consciousness and numbers of those who are committed to the well-being of the church, starting with those already in the pews. When more of a ministry's congregants become committed to the well-being of their church, the result is an increase of energy and resources. Participants will grow in their understanding of how the church operates from a systemic and cultural perspective, and will learn how to create new ways to strengthen the ministry.

What this seminar includes:

- How an integral approach to church growth & development benefits you
- How church size and type can eclipse growth strategies
- How a leader can move from parenting to partnering and support healthier interpersonal dynamics
- How to identify the three congregations found in every ministry and their unique attributes
- How to grow ownership, consciousness, and organizational coherence
- Dismantling the pastor/flock paradox
